

Introduction Exhibition Room

The museum introduces historical persons related to the area and the chronology of Fukagawa.

Permanent Collection Exhibition Room

It reproduces the townscape of Fukagawa-Saga Town during the late Edo Period (Tempo, 1830-1844). The transition of a day is produced by sounds and lights. Exhibition items are replaced every season to enable you to enjoy the exhibition room throughout the year.

Edo Fukagawa Townscape Map

Can you hear from somewhere a cock crowing cock-a-doodle-doo, sparrows chirping, a clam peddler calling, the sound of shutters sliding open or the striking of an hour bell?

Large merchant house deals in both dried sardines & oil cake for fertilizer and fish oil for lamp oil.

Large Merchant House

Tadaya's Warehouse

Rice Store

They polish brown rice by a machine mortar called "kara-usu" and sell it.

Boathouse

Boatmen carry people and goods by a so-called "Choki-bune" or a boat with a wild boar's tusk-shaped bow. Two shipping agents also offer light dishes and drinks for a party.

Fire Watchtower

The fire watchtower protects the town from a fire. When a fire is found, the alarm bell at the top is rung to call people's attention.

Main Street

I'm a kitty cat nicknamed "Mame-suke", guiding you through the streets in Edo," meow~. Let's enjoy a view of the townscape of Fukagawa from the stairs!! Be a time-traveler in the downtown area of Edo to experience the atmosphere of the streets, meow~.

Vegetable Store

They sell seasonal vegetables, pickles, konjac and eggs.

This area is the public space for people living in these row houses, including a well, toilets, garbage dump, and Inari Shrine.

Fire Break

Open space is designed to prevent a fire from spreading to the neighboring houses in quick succession. Stalls for tea, tempura and soba noodle stand together.

Row House

A row house is partitioned only by thin walls for common people to live in. Many people in Edo, the old Tokyo, lived in row houses. Five families lived in these row houses.

1 Masasuke

He goes around selling shelled Japanese littleneck clams and corbicula clams.

2 Hideji

He lives with his wife and child.

3 Matsujiro

He rows a choki-bune and a cargo boat.

4 Oshizu

She teaches shamisen (three-stringed musical instrument), also writing with a brush and sewing.

5 Daikichi

Lives with his wife. A large saw, a tool of his trade, is hung on the wall.
